Dear Insomniac Games Recruiting:

I am applying for the Summer Animation Intern position at Insomniac Games in Burbank, CA.

Thank you for the opportunity to join a passionate and enthusiastic game development company like Insomniac Games. Having a military background, I hold teamwork and a strong passion for my work as core values. I notice that these values are evident in Marvel's Spider-Man games as the quality of the final product richly displays the values of the company. Spider-Man is one of my favorite heroes and I feel that he represents the company's vision of having a positive message, friendship, self-sacrifice, and good succeeding over evil for the greater good. As an animator, I particularly like the dynamism and the flawless transitions between animations as Spider-Man flies through the air.

As an intern, I would be a valuable resource to your team because of my experience as an Army veteran. I find it inspiring that the company vision reflects my personal values so well. I believe knowing how to work as a team it is an essential value to learn, as it can lead to the successful completion of any given mission. As a Team leader is important for me to know the strengths and weaknesses of my soldiers and how to foster a healthy work environment. While I was deployed, I led a team of 3 soldiers to successfully manage an Air Defense site. I was able to assess the best placements for my soldiers, provide training, and encourage them in a high-pressure environment based on their personality for them to succeed. My heart to serve doesn't only extend to the military but to my community and the people in my life.

I am always attempting to improve my skills to produce a greater quality of output. Currently, I am developing my skills to have a better grasp on settles, adding overshoots, and overlaps to my animation as seen on the dog and the man animation. I understand that I have my own weaknesses, and I am always excited to learn how to overcome them. The best way to learn is by being surrounded by passionate and experienced teachers and I am eager at the opportunity to learn from the animators at Insomniac Games. I do not doubt that I would be a great candidate because of the values, experience, and passion I can bring to the team.

Thank you for your time,
